Hosted at the Eden Project in Cornwall, UK, Mine Closure 2013 brings together industry experts from around the world to share best practice on mine closure.

Designed for professionals, from engineers to community engagement practitioners, the programme incorporates:

- three days of conference sessions with a focus on mine closure and its socio-economic and environmental legacies
- a weeklong schedule of related workshops and field trips within the breath-taking landscape of the UK’s Cornish Mining World Heritage Site

Mine Closure 2013 is part of the international series of conferences founded by The Australian Centre for Geomechanics.

Submit an Abstract — Deadline 25th February
We’re looking for potential speakers to present papers on the latest innovations and developments in mine closure.

Conference agenda
Mine Closure 2013 includes a three-day conference session and a wider schedule of workshops and field trips.

Register your Interest
Be the first to hear about our early bird offer and see the full programme of events by registering your interest to attend.