Euromines partners with Fastmarkets: European Battery Raw Materials Conference 2025

Fastmarkets European Battery Raw Materials Conference 2025

16 to 18 September | Lisbon, Portugal

Europe's mining and raw materials sector is under pressure to deliver security, sustainability, and scale. With demand surging for battery-grade lithium, nickel, cobalt, manganese, and graphite, the opportunity for upstream producers is clear. But turning projects into progress requires capital, clarity, and connection.

The Fastmarkets European Battery Raw Materials Conference 2025 brings together the full value chain to tackle the real issues facing miners today, from financing challenges and permitting delays to offtake risk and ESG pressures.

Held at Lisbon's iconic Convento do Beato, this is the premier commercial platform to meet the buyers, investors, policymakers, and supply chain partners who are driving Europe's battery future.

Why attend?

- Gain insight into what end users need to commit to long-term offtakes
- Hear how peers are navigating regulation, ESG demands, and project cancellations
- Connect with OEMs, cell manufacturers, and midstream processors seeking local supply
- Unlock funding strategies from banks, equity partners, and government initiatives
- Learn how global geopolitics and trade tensions are reshaping raw material flows

With 500 attendees expected, including senior decision-makers from across Europe and beyond, this is where mining projects get the visibility and momentum they need.
